A RAGTIME COMPENDIUM

Notes accompanying Version 18 (as at 31 December, 2025)

The background, format and references given in these notes are your handbook for the spreadsheet.

[For I everywhere please note it is really We and Us, but sometimes it seems simpler to say I.]

Introduction

I became a devotee of ragtime (but alas never a pianist) when as a teenager I heard the Graeme Bell band play at the Sydney Town Hall in the early 1950's. Studies, family and career dominated my life until the early 1990's when I started to acquire ragtime LPs and later CDs, and when I found on the internet that there were more tunes than I had ever imagined. After I had downloaded the MIDI renditions by all the then well-known sequencers, players and piano roll transcribers I made a list of them – it was probably no more than 1,500 tunes.

Messaging to some of those creators flushed out lists of tunes they were working on, and Warren Trachtman shared with me a listing that Paul Wilson had made based on the Lester Levy Sheet Music Collection and several ragtime recording and sheet music listings. This became the starting point of A RAGTIME COMPENDIUM (and I can never thank Paul sufficiently for his work), but it would not have gone much further had I not been introduced (by email) to Californian Tom Brier, who volunteered to help and share his extensive data bases (and did so for over 15 years until his awful accident).

Over 20 years there have been many University libraries, composers, collectors and enthusiasts who have shared their knowledge or data base with those working on A RAGTIME COMPENDIUM at the time (and many of these are credited at the end of these notes). There have also been helpers who regularly searched the web for new or updated pages that would enhance our material. It is not finished, and it never will be, but I'd like to think it was a useful contribution to the ragtime community.

Tom Brier and I had different approaches – mine as I indicated started with renditions whereas Tom was a substantive collector of sheet music – but we settled on the importance of titles, subtitles, composers, lyricists, publishers and dates as validated from the copyright page of sheet music wherever possible and the use of multiple sources whenever practicable. Some of this evidence is rare and tunes for which the only source cited is Tom's own collection or a University library reflect this.

Background and Scope

The original aim of this compendium was to create a listing of all "ragtime' titles, with details of their composers, lyricists, years of copyright (or composition) and original publisher and also to indicate where MIDIs of particular titles could be found on the web. The rationale for only including MIDIs were chosen at the time because that was where I started and because of storage volumes if we adopted MP3's, but we have relented slightly on that in view of the enormous output on YouTube by ragtimedorianhenry.

The listing is specifically "ragtime" rather than "rags". A discussion on what constitutes "ragtime" could fill several web pages. Eminent musicologists have long differed on a definition of a rag or of ragtime, yet clearly there has to be some criteria for this Compendium. Some of the existing definitions exclude music not specifically composed for the piano, and others set a specific structure (e.g. AABBACC). As a generalisation the comment that the tune must, if played on a piano, have "syncopation in one hand and a steady rhythm in the other" seems a best fit for what we have chosen to include, although "we know it when we hear it" has prevailed in some cases.

Traditionally in publications the emphasis has been on works written for piano, with the exclusion of such items as songs, guitar pieces and trombone smears. But ragtime has diverse roots and we have endeavoured to include all items that are "significantly syncopated" - as a result we have included fiddle tunes, songs and guitar rags that many purists would reject.

Allan Sutton, in his "Cakewalks, Rags and Novelties" discography has a much tighter definition of ragtime (Introduction, p. 1). His significant work has been a confirmatory source for many titles, and has helped add titles and augment detail on others, but he excludes songs, works that do not conform to a relatively tight pattern and works not known to have been recorded in his time period (1894-1930). The interests and efforts of the many contributors of material (with very diverse interests) have somewhat defined the musical genres embraced, and some tunes from the classical repertoire (e.g. Gottschalk) that are deemed to fit "well" (perhaps by me alone) have been included.

To most people ragtime equates with Scott Joplin, and hence anything by Scott Joplin is ragtime. But that is not true as Joplin, like so many composers, wrote in many genres - rag, waltz, march, song and even an opera (Treemonisha). I doubt ARC contains all the tunes by any particular composer except those of the acknowledged ragtime seminal composer Scott Joplin. On the other hand it contains many entries for composers who only ever composed one ragtime piece, and maybe only ever one piece. The scene has been unduly complicated by the advent of the web which makes it possible for people to “publish” material which has no need to be judged as being either ragtime or of reasonable quality by knowledgeable colleagues.

We are sadly aware that there are some spurious entries, mainly ones where there are identical (or almost identical) titles and for one the composer listed is actually only an arranger. But with no evidence to prove this we have felt obliged to treat these as two tunes, at least until someone can prove otherwise. It is interesting how often only one title can be found for a particular composer, and how, as described elsewhere, several of the women composers seemed to cease composing when they married.

In this, the final revision with which I will manage, there has been a lot of effort put into the Pre-1971 segment (and almost none put into the Post-1970 segment) since this is the period for which more robust evidence is available, and for which more keeps coming onto the web. With the web nowadays being the ”publishing” medium, one can scarcely keep up with new compositions.

An important aspect of this revision is that Mississippi State University provided an inventory of their recent bequest of the Janice Cleary sheet music collection. It is nearly 50,000 sheets of which roughly one eighth transpired to be ragtime. This has led to significant strengthening of some source entries and some new entries, although sadly until that collection is scanned there may remain unrecognized ragtime treasures.

Using the listing

The listing is an xlsx spreadsheet in two parts – titles pre 1971 and titles post 1970. The expectation is that people will store the data on their hard drive as a reference rather than attempting to print its more than 26,000 pages. Once downloaded it can be readily sorted and rearranged to meet personal needs, for example by sorting by year or composer. If xlsx is not suitable for you, please request the format you would like and I can probably oblige.

To use the spreadsheet sensibly, and get the available benefits, it helps greatly to appreciate the sources of the data and to understand the format and symbols used. These are detailed in Table 1.

MIDIs

The logic behind listing sources of MIDIs is that these very small files, which are easy to download and store, give people an easy opportunity to hear a tune. The listing of MIDIs is however a by-product rather than the principal objective of the Compendium. The first priority has always been to detect tunes (titles and hopefully any subtitles); after that the order of priority for gleaning data is (probably) composers, date, lyricist and then publisher. Whether or not MIDI versions exist is not a significant priority, but I believe the effort made in this area is very comprehensive. Some titles are detected from MIDI renditions posted to the Internet. Unfortunately there are MIDIs that have been missed, just like there are titles that have not been discovered (yet).

There are noted instances where mp3 renditions are listed, based on them being able to either be downloaded as such or ripped from YouTube clips. There are thousands (millions?) of other mp3 tracks on the web, but pursuing them is beyond our resources. All renditions are the property of the particular artists and sequencers and are subject to the copyright conditions imposed by the particular web site. As they are public domain contributions, renditions may become unavailable if the particular web site ceases to function.

Downloading from the various web sites ranges from easy to messy and complex - from zipped files of the entire offerings to individual access to tunes via separate html pages. I fail to comprehend why anyone who elects to make their material available on the Internet makes the access difficult - but that is their choice. Hopefully you will find this compendium easy to access and use.

Further information on MIDIs is given in Table 2

Special thanks

A RAGTIME COMPENDIUM would not exist without the help of many contributors, the bulk of whom are acknowledged in Table 6.

But there are a few that have to be mentioned here (in alphabetical order):

- Dr David Beattie, a fellow Australian, who has been a helper in most revisions, and without whose help this project would have ceased long ago;
- Dorian Benard (ragtimedorianhenry) for access to his research and for validating titles;
- Tom Brier, whose assistance from almost day one was nothing short of exceptional, and for whom we hope for a full recovery from his nasty car accident in 2016;
- John Cowles for MIDIs and data from his eBay site;
- Rob Crausaz, whose substantial efforts have been greatly appreciated, especially as a major contributor to this revision;
- Benjamin Intartaglia, for consistent research on European ragtime;
- Mississippi State University for their exceptional help over 15 years (and other Universities have been great helpers too);
- Dr James Pitt-Payne and Veda J. Meyer-Castens for James' voluminous MIDI output and Veda's help in tracking them;
- Luigi Ranalli, who edited Version 6 and was an early anchor;
- Lothar van der Sluijs who has searched Dutch and other European markets for old scores and has aided in validating titles; and
- Dr Paul Wilson, whose data base was the starting point.

Format and Symbols used in the spreadsheet

Throughout the compendium there has been a standardisation on the use of periods (full stops) in abbreviations. A period is used only when the last letter of the abbreviation is not the last letter of the original word, e.g. Co. (Company), Jos. (Joseph), Inc. (Incorporated) or Alex. (when Alexander). However no period is used in such cases as Mr (Mister), Dr (Doctor), St (Street or Saint), Ave (Avenue), Chas (Charles) or Wm (William). The standard used for Junior is Jnr (no period).

Reference - this is just a line numbering, but a useful reference when corresponding with us.

Title - where published, the 1st line of title as it appears on the copyright page of the sheet music, with the exception of the treatment of A, An, etc. (see later). This is very rarely the cover, although many digitised collections (libraries rather than musicologists) use the cover title - so you may need to search a bit to find the title in any collection. In around 5% of cases the cover title differs from the copyright page title (printing errors, changes of mind, etc.) but the copyright page is always the correct identifier. Many tunes were never published as sheet music and the only source of data for these is the labels on old cylinders, piano rolls or 78 rpm records and more recently 33 1/3 and 45 rpm records and CDs. Alas these are far less reliable sources than printed sheet music and copyright entries. If you don't find the title you seek, try searching under Subtitle, as that is where the akas (also known as) have been put.

By convention, A, An, Le/La and The (and similar) are placed at the end of the title (eg xxx Rag, The).

There are some instances where quotation marks (" ") have been omitted where it would affect the alphabetical sorting.

For some titles there are so many MIDIs listed that the "Others" cell exceeds 256 characters, at which number the version of Excel I use concatenates the data when I copy the file. For these titles there are therefore two or more title lines.

Subtitle - any second line of titling from the copyright page - but in some cases this has not been able to be substantiated, and it may be from the cover. Sometimes it describes the style or genre. This section is also used for alternative titles, shown as aka….. or it may be a description from the cover of the sheet music. Occasionally it is a line on the copyright page above the obvious title.

Composer(s) - as stated on the sheet music copyright page, except where a pseudonym was used. Several Composers (and Lyricists) used a consistent pseudonym whilst others used pseudonyms for certain compositions. The former are more like stage names, and are shown as, e.g .Muir*, Lewis F and their real names can be found in Table 3. The latter are shown as xxx (as yyy) and a list of these is given in the latter part of Table 3.

Some people (often European migrants) just changed the spelling of their name during their lives and so Archie Goettler and Archie Gottler are really the same person, yet neither is a pseudonym. Where this is the case they have been listed under their later name with  (e.g. Gottler) for ease of sorting by composer and shown their name at the time (e.g. Goettler) in a text note.

Where known fuller names than used on the copyright have been given; where not confirmed they have been left them "as printed" so that, for example, Fairman, George may be Fairman, George W., but it may also be someone else.

Some standardisation of names has been undertaken, e.g. Morton, Jelly Roll is always used for all the variants of his name and Creamer & Layton are more correctly termed Creamer, Henry & Layton, J. Turner.

Names in square brackets [ ] are performers - data for these titles is from discographies that do not cite composers or publishers, and rarely even the year of composition (the year cited is usually the year of the recording).

In some cases the original sheet music states that it has been arranged by another person; there is equally no doubt many other cases where no arranger is credited that the music was rearranged by staff of the music publisher. Accordingly I have omitted almost all references to arrangers, and do not list different publications that are solely arrangements by different people.

Lyricist(s) - as stated on the sheet music copyright page. There may be some incorrect transpositions of composers and lyricists due to the differing ways the sources used to record data. All the people concerned have been credited with both music and lyrics where the tune was written by two or more people and the work so interlocked as to preclude definitive distinction. The same standardisation of names as described under Composer has been made.

Date - ideally, the year of copyright as stated on the sheet music copyright page - but some of this music was not copyrighted so the only practicable date for such items is the year of publication or even composition. In this listing minor errors in date (one year here or there) has not been considered serious - it has been seen as being more important to list the item.
~ means about (e.g. about 1910); c/c means composed/copyright date (e.g. 1910c/c1924). “pre xxxx” generally means there is a piano roll or recording in this year (and so far as I am aware many of these titles were never issued as printed scores); in rare cases it may be the year of death of the composer. [modern] means post 1955.

In some cases publishers are known to have issued an orchestration (by an arranger) first in order to create awareness and demand, and then later they issued the instrumental (or song). This would mean that the base composition (the instrumental or song) was from an earlier date than its first publication (which is the date usually cited). Where there is evidence of an earlier published orchestration it has been noted, e.g. i 1914 (o 1912).

Original Publisher - (where known) from original sheet music or later credit. This is a complex area as sometimes several publishers have had a "bite at the cherry". As a byproduct of electronic systems in which software like Cakewalk can print out the sheet music from a MIDI, some of the titles have no formal "publication" - instead they have just a rendition on the Internet. These developments have given us challenges of identification, over and above those caused by the usual title changes from front cover to title page, composers using pseudonyms, etc. Others may only have had concert performances, recordings or piano rolls, or they may only exist in manuscript form, or perhaps subsequent transcriptions. In the case of the Jelly Roll Morton titles where the source is Meddings it is usually the copyright holder rather than the publisher. Where known, cities or countries have been included when the publisher is outside of North America.

Sometimes Libraries and authors are “loose” in their attributions of publishers. Also what is regarded as a publishing house may have changed its’ legal status over time (e.g. Co., Inc.). The publisher attributed should therefore only be taken as a guide.

For consistency I have abbreviated and to &, Company to Co., Incorporated to Inc., Corporation to Corp. and Publishing to Pub. in all cases. For almost all cases I have also omitted any preceding The.

(Self-published) in earlier years means the composer had his /her own sheets printed and distributed; in later years it often means a posting to the web. (Unpublished) means there was no publication made at the time. For many of these tunes, some of them very well known, there are transcriptions from piano rolls or recordings and/or later publications.

Type - unfortunately somewhat a grey area.

B = Blues
F = Fox Trot
I = Intermezzo or Two Step
M = March
N = Novelty
O = Opera or classical
P = Polkas or Parlor Piano pieces
R = Ragtime composed before about 1945
S = Ragtime Style Song
W = Waltz
Y = Contemporary Ragtime

Source of Data - This column was started by Paul Wilson. Not all sources are given credit but rather only ones that have provided added data or "authentication". (In particular Duke, Lilly, Templeton, Baylor, New York Public Library, Gonzaga and UCB may have easier to access digitised scores than Levy for some titles.) Sources known to be based on sightings of sheet music (Brier in particular) are clearly more reliable than sources relying on extracts from printed material which may itself had had errors. Private sources are generally only cited where there is no publicly available recognised source. Where no source is cited the data is generally from web page of the pertinent sequencer/player.

Modern ragtime composers giving us data about their own compositions are usually cited as “Comp”.

Increasingly libraries (and some individuals) are digitising sheet music collections, making pre 1922 sheet music readily available free on line to interested parties. Where possible I have cited at least one such source (e.g. BI, Kirk, Lilly, NLA, Templeton, Maine, Tjaden, UCB, Baylor, nypl, Gonzaga, etc.). This might be a treasure trove for pianists seeking the sheet music of more obscure titles. The list of abbreviations used for sources is given in Table 4. Finding the sheet music on their web site may be complicated by their having used the title from the cover rather than the title from the copyright page. It is important to realise that once a title has been listed it is quite unlikley that further sources will be added or that further renditions will be sought out and listed.

Rendition Exists ? - r means one or more (sometimes 15 or 20) MIDIs exists (or has existed) on the Internet. Many of the renditions are piano roll transcriptions. I have strived to give credit only to the player or sequencer’s own sites rather than secondary hosting sites.

When we began working on A RAGTIME COMPENDIUM the predominant medium for posting renditions to the web was MIDI files. We therefore adopted that as our standard, meaning that we only searched for MIDI renditions. It seemed to cover the field well and had the great advantage of being rather compact. Progress in programs has led to many performers now posting in mp3 format or on YouTube (from which mp3 can usually be extracted). It would be almost impossible for us to search the web for mp3 renditions. But ragtimedorianhenry has posted over 3,000 YouTube clips, roughly 50% of which are ragtime but more importantly probably 20-25% are of tunes for which we do not cite a MIDI rendition.

Such a volume has led us to list his mp3’s in order to help viewers find renditions of these rarities. X in his column means there is a MIDI available; m means there is a YouTube clip. In the case of Benjamin Intartaglia m means there is a mp3 file able to be downloaded from his web page.

A p in this column means that there is a free scan available on the web but we don’t have any rendition noted. Creating renditions of these tunes is hopefully an opportunity for some performers.

Readily Available Folio - an "a" in this column means that the title is in the schedule of Readily Available Folios, accessible from the web page. There are details of 34 Readily Available Sheet Music folios that contain (with some duplication) 588 different titles. Sakae Watanabe of Japan kindly made this material available – he made MIDI renditions of almost all of these, and a few others. No attempt has been made to expand this because of similar material on other sites.

Players/sequencers (of MIDIs) - There are separate columns for eleven players or sequencers. There is nothing special about them except they are the ones with the most renditions. An x in their column means there is a MIDI rendition of this title on "their" site by them. No differentiation has been made for live played renditions. An m means there is either a mp3 on the site or a YouTube video (from which a mp3 can be extracted). Renditions by other sequencers/players and al the piano roll transcriptions (which require more detailed headings) are identified by having their names in the column headed Others. They were originally in alphabetical order but over time that became too difficult to do and so the latter entries are in order of “discovery”.

"xxx ex yyy" means xxx has a MIDI on yyy's web site. Only the "principal" site is listed and this rendition may therefore also be found on other sites. xxx ex Mathew means it is not available on the Internet but can be obtained from me on request.

"unk ex yyy" means there is a MIDI on yyy's site but the sequencer/player has not been identified. In some cases (e.g. those from Martha Decker) it is unlikely a sequencer will be identified as the web site owner tried hard to disguise their sources. Whilst a lot of effort has been expended in trying to identify the performers/sequencers, some will still be attributed incorrectly. For example, those on the "Cowles" site attributed to Steve Nordhougen are in fact only ones he contributed (and he does not know the correct performer/sequencer!).

(x inc) means the MIDI is incomplete, mostly through just the first page of the sheet music being available to the sequencer.

The listing of piano roll transcriptions is alas prone to duplications as a result of two issues. Firstly quite often the labelling was poor and the performer may, or may not, have been noted (but in some cases is known by the transcriber/poster). Secondly rolls were often reissued either by other firms, or by the same firm, with different roll numbers. None of the ARC team have had the time to listen to every piano roll transcription listed to eliminate all the duplicates (although hopefully most have been eliminated).

The Intartaglia MIDIs and the Hiawatha MIDIs are from their private collections and only available on request from me. There are some Pitt-Payne MIDIs in the same category (cited as Pitt-Payne ex Mathew).

Finding the MIDI on a web site may be complicated by their having used the title off the cover of the sheet music or whatever title was on the piano roll rather than the title off the copyright page of sheet music .

MIDI Information

As a MIDI is intellectual property, considerable effort has been expanded in identifying the "home" site of the sequencer/player and, to the best of my knowledge, these are the sites listed. The same rendition may be on (many) other sites (who may, or may not, give credit). Where the reference cited is a site that contains solely material from other sequencers it is because no "home" site for the player/sequencer has been found. Some of the "unk" renditions may alas be identical.

Web site details of the listed players/sequencers are given in Table 5.

David Beattie, Louise Blyton and Paul Wilson, each of whom had significant lists, facilitated the original listing of MIDIs. Since then it has been a case of trawling the Internet. Various artists/sequencers have kindly checked their own listings. No sequencer has been omitted intentionally, although bluegrass renditions have tended to be excluded. As titles can be added or deleted daily, or a web site opened or closed, there is no assurance these are all the renditions available or that they are even all still available.

It should not be assumed that every MIDI available is listed as MIDIs are added and deleted from the web daily, although it is hoped the core by the "kings" of ragtime MIDI (Cowles, Edwards, MacDonald, Trachtman and Wilson, and now Intartaglia and Pitt-Payne, and ragtimedorianbernard with YouTube) will long be there. Their contributions are enormous; those of sequencers and players with lesser but sometimes specialised outputs in this field are equally important, as was the saving and reworking of many titles by Martha Decker. Rick Reublin merits special mention in the song area; likewise Oleg Mezjuev for international material and for the posting of the Watanabe, Cowles and Crausaz renditions; Benjamin Intartaglia, Luigi Ranalli and Rob Crausaz for their creation of MIDIs of "rarer" titles, and Dr James Pitt-Payne for the volume of MIDIs he has posted (since July 2004). It would be remiss not to mention the contributions of Robert Perry, Terry Smythe and Warren Trachtman in piano roll transcriptions. Some publicity shy collectors have contributed significant "ex Old Web" renditions. Some MIDIs may have been missed through titles being added to A RAGTIME COMPENDIUM after the web site concerned has been checked and rechecked.

In several cases Terry Smythe (and his colleagues) and Warren Trachtman have scanned the same piano roll. I do not make any judgement as to which is better, but generally cite the Trachtman rolls source as it seems to be the easier site from which to access particular MIDIs.

Should you be unable to find a particular MIDI on the Internet at the addresses given, please advise me - it can probably be copied to you from the diverse collections of colleagues. Many locations of MIDIs can be found via www.musicrobot.com, but they certainly don't list all these (and does list some in A RAGTIME COMPENDIUM). If you are after a rendition of a particular title, Daytona Music also has a user-friendly MIDI search site that in some cases has renditions not listed (detected) - try them at www.daytonamusic.com/rag/midsearch.htm.

Significant contributors

I have been reluctant to include a list of people who have helped along the way for concern that I may omit someone. But colleagues have suggested that people would be interested in the spectrum of significant helpers, so here goes:

- Dick Baker, for access to his personal data base.
- Dr David Beattie, for his extensive ongoing help and in particular information on Australian rags.
- Rick Benjamin, for access to the sheet music list of the Paragon Ragtime Orchestra and help with queries.
- Louise Blyton, who provided some of the initial MIDI sources.
- Nan Bostick, for information of women composers and general personal support.
- Tom Brier – I can't express my thanks for the extent of Tom's contribution except to say that without Tom this compendium would never have eventuated or come as far as it has. His motor accident is a ragtime catastrophe.
- John Cowles, for his vast work on MIDIs (Primeline) and information / MIDIs contributed separately.
- Rob Crausaz, both for data and many renditions of less common titles.
- Jan Dahmén, for his own MIDIs and database.
- ? Davis (was it Charles ?), for sharing of his personal listing of titles. Alas I have lost his contact details.
- "Perfessor" Bill Edwards, for his unstinting help whenever sought.
- Simon Gábor, for information on Hungarian ragtime titles.
- Geoff Grainger (Ditty Box Enterprises), for access to his data bases.
- Hiawatha, for his collection of personal MIDIs.
- Frank Himpsl, whose digitization of his immense piano roll collection must be one of the greatest contributions to ragtime enthusiasts, and who had helped us access his site progressively.
- Dr Nora Hulse, for information on women composers.
- Benjamin Intartaglia, for a huge collection of MIDIs and data on French ragtime composers.
- Sue Keller, for added information on titles for which she has created MIDIs.
- Laura, for introducing me to some of the sequencers.
- Adrien Le Gallo, for data mainly on European ragtime items.
- Colin MacDonald, now deceased, particularly for his "yet to be sequenced" list.
- Joel Markowitz, for access to old auction records. Mike Meddings, for information on Jelly Roll Morton compositions.
- Oleg Mezjuev, for his help whenever sought, and his hosting of web pages of MIDIs made available to us.
- ragtimedorianhenry, for private MIDIs and access to data on his youtube clips, and research.
- Robert Perry, for data from his web page.
- Dr James Pitt-Payne and Veda J. Meyer-Castens, for his endless MIDIs and supporting data and her searching and tracking work.
- Luigi Ranalli, for his ongoing help and support.
- Robbie Rhodes, for information on some piano roll transcriptions.
- Jack Rummell, for access to his past reviews and data base.
- William Ryden, for his complete list of personal compositions.
- Christoph Schmetterer, for his information on European compositions/publications.
- Lothar van der Sluijs, for sharing his collection and research.
- Terry Smythe, for his unbelievable amount of piano roll transcriptions and data associate with them.
- Jeremy Stevenson, for details of rags in his collection.
- Richard Stibbons, for access to his extensive MIDI collection and associated data, plus technical help in formatting.
- Peter Summers, for information on titles in his privately published portfolio.
- Ted Tjaden, whose web site of essays and links to sheet music is invaluable.
- Warren Trachtman, for his initial encouragement, for supplying the Wilson database and for his MIDIs and piano roll transcriptions/data.
- Sakae Watanabe, for his set of MIDIs and the folio details.
- Paul Wilson, for his initial database.
- Many creators of MIDIs, for supplying added data re publishers, etc. when approached.
- The staff of various University libraries, in particular the University of Colorado, Baylor University, the Mississippi State University and Princeton University.

And apologies to anyone I have failed to mention.
